Time it was,
And what a time it was,
It was . . .
A time of innocence,
A time of confidences.
Long ago . . . it must be . . .

Foreword

No one reading this book in the future will be able to recall every event that took place. We do hope, however, that you will be able to remember those events of which you were a part. That is what the 1969 RANGER'S LOG is all about. It is a long memory sheet of moments which you hold near to your heart and of friends who mean so much to you.

The Class of 1969 Proudly Presents
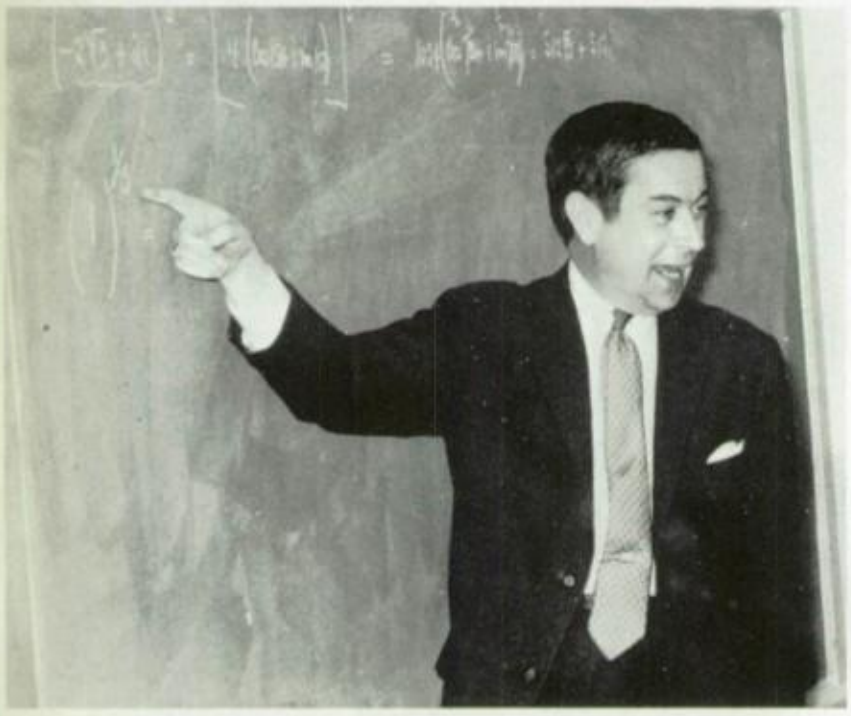
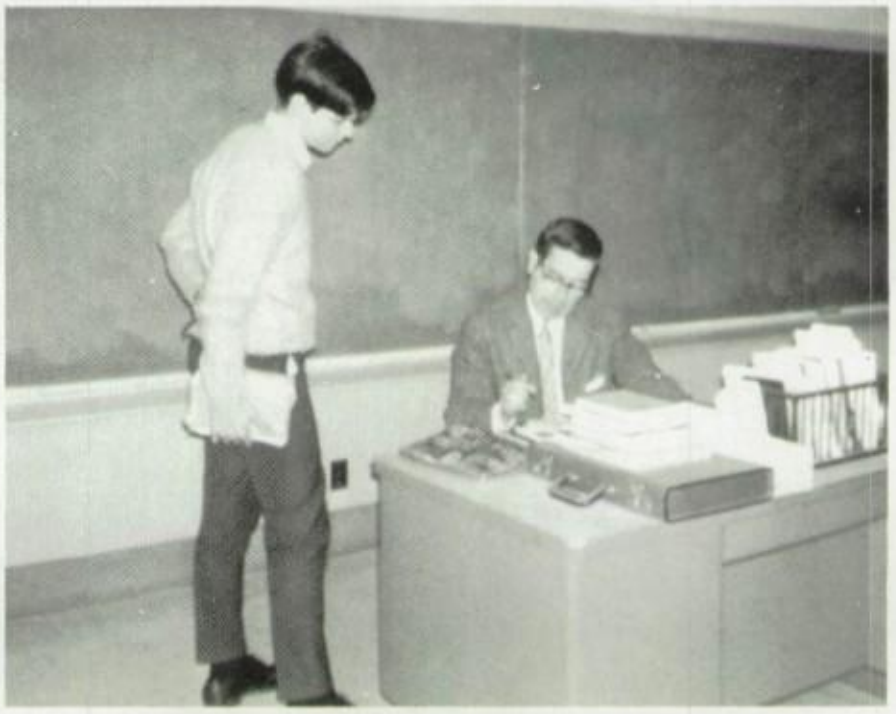
The Ranger's Log
"as Follows:"

Mr. James P. McFeeley





Tooting your own horn, Mr. McFeeley?

A buyer!

A magician is a rare gift, a man who can do the amazing with a movement of his hand before our eyes. He can start with seemingly nothing and suddenly pull a rabbit out of a hat.

We have such a person at Traip, one who goes beyond the usual endpoints of mathematics. He can take a mystifying equation, mold it in his hands, float it across the board, and suddenly say, "Look! See? Here lies the answer!" Thought, patience, and understanding are all required in teaching; but this yearbook belongs to a man who puts a quality of magic into his art.

We, the Class of 1969, proudly dedicate this yearbook to Mr. James P. McFeeley, whose devotion and love for his work prompted us beyond our own goals. We thank you, Mr. McFeeley, for teaching us the meaning of the word "dedication."

Principal's Message

There are a great variety of qualities that make a good person, or rather make a person good. As Boy Scouts, many of us were even given a prepared list that started with "Trustworthy, Loyal, Helpful"—and ended "Brave, Clean, and Reverent." With no difficulty at all we could each prepare our own list and do so disagreeing very little with the lists of others. I would like to mention briefly one that might not appear often. As I grow older and see the struggles of one group with another or between individuals, this quality comes to mind more and more.

This quality is sympathy. First and above all, I don't mean in its usual sense of pity. Pity is a stifling, contemptuous quality. It excuses faults rather than trying to correct them and tends to weaken those who most need strength. It steals the recipient's pride. I mean sympathy as the Greeks who originated the word meant it—the sharing of feelings or emotions. We cannot always do just as another may want us to. But we can try to understand his feelings, even to share them. We can approach him as another man capable of mistakes or poor judgment. We can even spank our children because it may strengthen them to better meet the challenges they will have to face. But if we really have sympathy we won't also have to scorn a man for his mistakes to hide our own. Nor hate him because his judgment doesn't agree with our own. Nor spank our children merely to vent personal frustrations. In short, if we can share another's feelings or, at least, have a regard for them, most of the reasons we invent for hating others would not only be unnecessary but be revealed as senseless.

The diploma you receive this year won't carry with it the qualities you need any more than the diplomas the older generation received. Listen to others, look at them, learn from them, understand them—then look hard at yourself and maybe you can improve on us.

He kindly stopped for me—
The Carriage held but just Ourselves—
And Immortality.

Girls' and Boys' State provides citizenship training for the highest type of girl and boy. It affords an opportunity for high school students to be together as self-governing citizens, to inform ourselves about the duties, privileges, rights, and responsibilities which we must assume as we become adults. This is a citizenship program of "learning by doing." It is accomplished by acquainting ourselves with local and state government by actual participation in elections as well as listening to lectures and attending study sessions.

Girls' and Boys' State was not only an experience in government, but also an experience in life as well. Our only regret is that every student in the State of Maine could not have had the opportunity to work, live, and learn at Girls' and Boys' State for a week as we did! Politics is no longer just a word to us, government is no longer the responsibility of someone else, and the responsibility as a citizen has a brighter meaning for us.

The band participated in both the Christmas Concert and the Spring Concert this year. They also played at several of the home football games, and their music helped to liven up countless athletic assemblies. The band had an exchange concert in the spring, and members participated in the Western Maine Concert Festival and the All-State Concert Festival.

The chorus has worked very hard this year and been quite active. Besides participating in the Christmas Concert and the Spring Concert, some of the members of the chorus also went to the Western Maine Concert Festival in Mexico and the All-State Concert Festival in Brewer. The Sechs-Tetes, whose arrangements are written by Mr. Rutherford, had several opportunities to sing on occasions other than the concerts.

This year's student council has been a working student council, working for the students and their school atmosphere. Led by Kevin Fellows, president: Mark Sousa, vice-president; Deborah Downey, secretary; and Dwyn Dion, treasurer, the council has taken great strides in the improvement of relations between itself and the students and administration. Reports were given regularly to the students in the homerooms to inform them of the council's activities. Refreshments were sold at the home football games, the members worked on a dance to benefit the athletic whirlpool fund, canned goods were collected for needy families at Thanksgiving, and money was raised for a scholarship. Also, a Winter Carnival was held in February which included many indoor and outdoor activities and a semi-formal dance at which a queen was crowned. All of these activities have rounded out a very sucessful year.

National Honor Society

The purpose of the National Honor Society is to honor those students who have been outstanding not only academically but also in the field of extracurricular activities. The members must exhibit scholarship by maintaining an 86 average and must also have qualities of leadership, character, and service. This year's group has worked to earn money for a scholarship and also has contributed to the success of the Dollars for Scholars program.

National Thespian Society

The National Thespian Society is one of the few clubs at Traip in which members must earn their membership through diligent work. To become a thespian, each person must participate in enough dramatic productions so as to be awarded ten points. Each of these points represents ten hours of work. Students may participate in the 3-act play, class plays, and regional play competition. Thespian membership is a distinct honor for the student interested in dramatics.

The F.T.A. has been involved in several different projects this year. In order to raise money for a scholarship, winter sports programs were sold by the members during basketball season. The F.T.A. acted as ushers at the annual Parents' Nite, and also gave their support to the Dollars for Scholars drive. A teacher Appreciation Day was also planned. The F.T.A. officers this year were Jane Smith, president; Linda Donaldson, vice-president; Paula Hodgdon, secretary; and Dean Bouffard, treasurer.

Future Business Leaders of America

The F.B.L.A. has functioned as a very hard-working organization this year. The officers were: Susan Burnsed, president; Linda Crean, vice-president; Eileen Foye, secretary; Patti Seward, treasurer; and Pat Moulton, reporter. The club sold candy to raise money for their own scholarship, and they sold candy at the home basketball games for the benefit of Dollars for Scholars.

The F.H.A. is a national organization whose purpose is to help girls work together and learn the principles of homemaking for future use. They also strive for the development of better world, community, and family living. One of their activities this year was a Halloween Party for children between the ages of three and five. Both the members of the F.H.A. and the children benefited from this party.

Librarians

The librarians provide our school with a very necessary service. Because of the overabundance of work which rests on Mrs. Pinkerton's shoulders, student help in the library is greatly appreciated. Not only do the librarians take care of students' passes and sign out books, but they also do many of the other chores which go along with the operation of the library.

The Folk Music Club experiments with music of the past and present. It studies the styles and the songs of former greats and of contemporaries. The topics may range from Leadbelly to Dylan, or Woody Guthrie to Simon & Garfunkel. In the past, the Folk Club has attended concerts at colleges. The aim of the club is to have an enjoyable time with the music of our land.

The monitors are a group of seniors whose objective is to maintain safety in the school. When the "traffic" in Traip's corridors becomes crowded and presents a problem, it is up to the monitors to restore order. Also, the monitors would be the ones to take over if an accident were to occur. They are very important for the welfare and safety of Traip Academy.

Ski Club

This year's Ski Club has enjoyed a very large membership and an excellent season for skiing enjoyment. Under the direction of Mr. Apter and Mr. Owens, the club made several trips to the Big "A" in York which were enjoyed by all who participated.

Football 1968 started on a hot Monday in mid-August and ended on a cold, windy Saturday in November. Coach Smith greeted a large turnout, many of whom were untested on the gridiron, and through practice and scrimmage, prepared them for the first game at Morse.

Morse 33—Traip 6! The two teams played on more even terms than the score indicates however. As Mr. Smith later said, "There were many mistakes made and many lessons learned from that game."

The final game of the season was a highly spirited one against arch-rival Marshwood. The Rangers, led by co-captains Fields and Fellows, refused to give in and truly earned a 13-0 triumph. The high point of the game and the season was when the Marshwood dummy was raised up the flagpole signifying victory. Thus the season ended with a fine overall record of five wins and three losses. Congratulations to the team and coaches Smith, Roy, Littlefield, and Sweeney.

With six lettermen returning, along with returnees from the fine Freshmen team, the outlook for next year's team is bright. The co-captains of next year's team will be David Ayer and James Taylor.

Traip's varsity Cross Country team enjoyed a fine season. They went undefeated in the Southern York County League and also won the SYCL meet in York. Led by co-captains David Leavitt and Wayne Gardiner, they again showed their strength by winning the Southwestern Maine meet at Portland. In the state of Maine meet they finished third overall, with David Leavitt coming in seventh, Scott Leavitt placing twelfth, and Wayne Gardiner placing twenty-fifth.

Varsity Basketball

The 1968-69 Traip Academy Varsity Basketball team completed a most successful season with 19 victories and 4 defeats. Ably led by co-captains Jeff Robinson and Barry Fletcher, the team displayed great hustle and desire during the season. They entered the Western Maine Class L tournament in third place and beat Bonny Eagle in their first game before bowing to Winthrop in the semi-finals.

Starting the season with only four returning members, Coach Smith and his squad faced the task of rebuilding. Everyone responded to the challenge and provided the Traip fans with an exciting and memorable season.

A Record Unsurpassed

The 1968-69 Junior Rangers enjoyed a perfect season, rolling over all opposition in posting a 21-0 record. Well tutored pressing tactics led to the downfall of many an opponent. Agile speed, combined with expert marksmanship, added to their impressive wins. Under the direction of their coach, Jon Gordon, each boy worked and practiced hard throughout the season. Sophomore center Bob Foley was high scorer and top rebounder for the season. Tri-captains Frank Tobey, David Snodgrass, and Charlie Morris, all juniors, were also important cogs in the undefeated club, as was sophomore Rick Wilson. Many of these fine players are sure to provide good material for next year's varsity team.

Competing against seven other contenders, the girls were awarded their trophy on the basis of appearance, timing, enthusiasm, originality, and effectiveness.

Freshman Basketball

The 1968-69 Freshman Basketball team worked extremely hard to give their opponents some good competition. They had a very good season with an 11-2 record. The boys proved that they could work together as a team. Freshman Basketball is a learning period for boys beginning to play basketball on a high school team, and this year's boys certainly learned a great deal from the many games they played. Under Coach Littlefield, the boys not only gained experience but also developed new skills to contribute to next year's Junior Varsity squad.

Varsity Girls' Basketball

The 1968-69 girls' varsity basketball team did a fairly good job this year considering the team lost three of last year's starters. Practices started early in November and the girls worked hard to their last game on February 14. The girls had a 6-8 record which could have been better if foul shooting had been more accurate. Several games were lost on the foul line. Once on the court every girl contributed to the team. The help from Coach Miss Farley and co-captains Celeste Frisbee and Cindy White gave each girl the confidence and the stamina to keep trying throughout the entire season. They also helped each girl see that there is always room for improvement and that practice makes perfect.

Two awards were given this year. Celeste Frisbee received the Coach's Award for her all-around ability and contribution to the team, and Judy Seaward received the foul shooting award.

Junior Varsity Girls' Basketball

Bottom Row: Co-capts. I. Goodwin and K. Lee. Row 2: D. Fellows, T. Chick, S. Foss, B. Wyman, P. Kraft, E. Goodwin, N. Estes, B. Garnett.

Under their new coach, Miss Durgin, each girl worked hard to develop a successful team. Even though there was little experience on the team, the girls pulled through after the first few games. They had a 6-8 record for the season and their schedule was one of the largest ones a junior varsity team has ever had. There was a lot of team spirit and a great deal of teamwork on the court. The girls worked as a team and not as individuals. They did their best and presented competition to all the other teams. Next year should bring not only new girls, but the returning underclassmen with their experience.

Managers

Kneeling, left to right: D. Kinsman, Coach Farley, L. Donaldson. Standing: F. Ricker, C. Thompson, G. Fletcher, K. Tuttle.

What do we do now?

She finally got off her feet!

Wrestling

Bottom Row: Mgr. R. Elmo, C. Marshall, J. Illsley, M. Benjamin, R. Michaud, F. Hobbs, V. DiSilvestro, R. Caldwell, T. Woodward, C. Lancaster, A. Higgins, Mgr. S. Loring. Row 2: Coach Roy, H. Martin, R. McKay, B. Hevey, B. Matt, co-capt. G. Clough, co-capt. D. Ayer, M. Gilliam, J. Taylor, S. Leavitt, M. Burnsed, P. Metevier.

The 1968-69 wrestling team had an outstanding 6-5 record this year. For the first time since the initiation of the program the wrestling team participated in Class A competition, enabling the boys to compete in the New England tournament. David Ayer, an outstanding junior wrestler, should be given special congratulations for coming in second at this meet. This is the second year that the team was made up of primarily freshmen and sophomores, a good foundation for building next year's team. Working closely with the boys was Coach Roy who guided the boys through the season and watched as each boy proved himself on the mat. From such a young squad, it is certain more good wrestling will be seen in coming years.

The 1968 Track Team enjoyed a fine season of seven wins and two losses under the able tutoring of Coach Onil Roy. Because of the new equipment that was purchased, four dual meets were able to be held at home. This was the first year that the area was exposed to the excitement of Track comeptition. ## TO-DAY

So here hath been dawning
  Another blue Day:
Think, wilt thou let it
  Slip useless away?

Out of Eternity
  This new Day is born;
Into Eternity,
  At night, will return.

Behold it aforetime
  No eye ever did:
So soon it for ever
From all eyes is hid.

Here hath been dawning
  Another blue Day:
Think, wilt thou let it
  Slip useless away?

Thomas Carlyle

THE SEA CREATURES

We walked alone through many a year and never knew of each other's eyes.
And then the day came and we did know who the other was.

We walked in the fields
and passed time with the sun,
told riddles with the moon,
sang ballads to the sea,

always knowing that we were we.
I was me
and she was she—in bondage we were and yet living free.

And then came the day when she turned slowly,
saying she must leave,
leave the moon, sun, and sea;
but most of all,
she had to leave me.

So she left and later we met again
after she'd met the countless strangers;
and I knew there was someone else who loved the moon, sun, and sea, and also loved her.

But that was fine
if she didn't mind that winter had come,
so I smiled and wished her well and went off to find my own sea creature.

Frank Mellen

I AM NOT

I know I'm not
I know I won't
I can never be
For me to be What I am not
I have to be what I won't.
I am what I am
That's all that I am I know I can never be.
To be what I'm not
Is to be what I won't
And I'm all that I can be.

I want to be
I really do
But it's so hard to in this world.
For to be what I am not
I have to strive higher and higher.
Higher and higher. Higher and higher Until there is nothing more to strive for.

I'm not I won't
I can never be.
I am
That's all.

Monique Kimball

THE SHORE

Have you ever taken a walk at night
Along the shore when the tide's just right,
To watch the crabs crawl in and out,
To watch the gulls just walk about,
Along the shore before the dark of night?
Have you ever taken a walk at night
Along the shore when the tide's just right,

To see the pebbles being tossed about,
Which now for centuries, without a doubt,
Have roamed the world in a scurrilous flight
To find a place that will suit it just right?

Have you ever taken a walk at night
Along the shore when the tide's just right,
To notice the things that seem so right,
That nature has created for our delight?
But, how many people will contemplate upon this sight,
For who knows how long there will be such sights?

Priscilla Albin

ALONE

Sitting there—waiting,
Waiting for something that Will never come.
Alone.
Able to think my silly thoughts,
Able to find out life,
Alone
Questioning but no answer Comes.
From the dark and silent Night
Alone
Not lost, just wandering Afraid and alone.

Malinda Niles

SAND

Do you like the sand in your shoes?
Most people think that it's bad news
To have sand in their shoes.

Bill Cutts

I wondered who it was . . .

I wondered who it was
That man of tattered clothes
And beard of brown and an Old torn gown
Who walked along so slow.

I wondered who it was
That man of care-worn face
And friends of old whose Hearts were cold
In his time of need.

I wondered who it was
Beneath his wooden fate
When people cried and Others lied
As up the hill he strode.

I wondered who it was
That man who bore his pain
And when he had spoken the Spell was broken
And then there came the rain.

Richard Brayall

For one to breathe clean air,
He must go to the top of a mountain;
And if he wants a disease-free drink,
The water must not come from the river.
When he goes to the beach, his biggest worry
Is not sharks, but broken glass.
A tenement dweller must share control
Of his home with rats and roaches.
Appalachia is so poor that it can't Afford to keep its apple any more.

The brave warrior of our country
Looks up from the ground where he lies
With a bullet embedded in his side;
And he thinks:
What in the name of God am I doing here?
But it's too late.
When, I wonder, will men realize
That they have amused themselves enough
With destruction of everything
That they say they love.

Ron Hamel

The bright yellow sounds of morning
Rush in through my tenement view.
A musty room of plaster cracks
And memories of you.

A picture on the bedstand,
A strand of golden hair,
A fragrance once forgotten
Returns on morning's air.

The alarm clock rings beside me,
Reminds me of today,
My memories begin to slip,
The fragrance fades away.

Mark Sousa

DEATH

In the midst of man's suspended existence,
The pulse of spiritual life does cease
And we ascend to the heavenly distance,
Of the eternal love and peace.

Dean Jordan

Love is a lonesome hunter
Who kills late at night.
There are no chains that can hold him
So the law says that he's all right.
But did you see this morning
How low I hung my head?
And it won't be long till evening
And I'll be wishing that I'm dead.
And all these things I've been saying
I'll be wishing I'd left unsaid.

Barry Hayes

to life

it's all so futile, so futile somehow . . .
they fight for their right when there are so many "rights" and "wrongs" . . .
we are supposed to worry and hurry
along in our world . . .
explain our messages and battle the forces
squeezing
us to death . . .
to death . . .
demonstrations on main street
and parades and banners . . .
communist newspapers
and riots . . .
blood spilled over hate
and death runs rampant
over the torn earth . . .
college expenses
and draft cards
flaming in the hot night air
and teenage marriage
crumbling our lives . . .
we are supposed to battle the forces
squeezing
us to death . . .
to death . . .
i can simply sit on a quiet hill
and watch the sun slowly dropping into its bed of green . . .
i can smell the wind and hear it taunt me as it glides through the day . . .
i can stand alone
and gaze at the trees in the distance swaying dreamily and singing
a song of uncaring . . .
i am supposed to forget these forces bringing me to life . . .
to life . . .

CORRIDORS OF YOUTH

Quiet!
There must be silence
In the long corridor of youth.
Listen!
Don't speak, you will not learn that way.

Faster, faster
The times are pushing, pushing.
You must learn;
You must grow.

Is it time yet?
Have you seen, heard enough?
They think so, you are 21!

Look!
There's a door to end the corridor.

Are you really free
From that long hall . . .

Shealagh Kimball

NO. 1896

It's only right up at six, to bed at ten eat three times
told by chimes
in your watch.

Of course you take your paid vacations and kiss your wife
she's your life and the kids.

Naturally it's the thing to go to church on Sunday helps the conscience on Monday.

Of course it's right
to pass by the Army man only enough to feed our hand.

Of course it's right
to die at seventy Follow the line
in order to go on time.

CHARNIDES

Dead kings
With golden rings
Have a share
Don't care
And say "oh my"
"but why"
Try to help
A lonely whelp
Who wants to be Only free.

Iron princes Smile and winces
Sword in hand
All o'er the land
They roam Taking home
The best they find
But never mind.

Lowly Peasant
Life's not pleasant
Whip and lash
Cut and gash
He'll endure
But he's sure
The day will come
To beat the drum
To overthrow the dead
Those men of lead
And on that day
Who's to say
What is free
For I'll be me.

Richard Brayall

SUNRISE

hey! have you ever run through the grass at five in the morning when the sun is climbing out of bed and it yawns and its mouth gleams
red and orange and its teeth are the black mountains that rise from your feet
and the birds sing of the oceans that lie on the other side of the sun,
and the moon,
weary and pale from a long night's work
of shining, sinks into its cloud bed,
and fallen cherry blossoms,
wet from evenings
tears,
cling to your feet—
and have you ever wished you could stand right IN the sunrise but all you can do is watch

Karlene Parker

The room was still,
And pale gold morning light
Rolled over my windowsill,
And, picking a brush out of my curtains,
It painted your image
On the grey wall of my room.
And as I rose from my linen
To stroke your hair,
I swirled the dusty, sun-streaked air,
And the kindly, cotton curtains shifted,
And the sun took you away . . .

AUTHORITY

Authority is a b'ue uniform
A shiny silver badge.
A car with lights on top
A voice that only knows the word NO.
Authority is a man behind a desk
Armed with tests and quizzes.
Authority is being home on time
And giving a recount of the night's happenings.
Authority is a hard-earned award
That comes with growing up.

Al Bowden

DEATH OF A CHILD

I'm only a child, a child of four.
What would this world call my life before?

I got a new bike and a new train.
Will I ever get to run them again?

Oh Lord, I know I never will;
He came to take me to play a new bill.

This is a role that is the last,
A role that made my present a past.

I know my bike was for a boy of seven,
But who rides bikes up in . . . in heaven?

Donna Salisbury

THINGS MISSING

Do you know what you missed?
You missed the sea the other day,
The day it danced on the rocks,
More magically than I'd ever seen it.

You weren't there,
So you missed the sun
Coming through the windshield,
Turning the road into a white haze
Beyond the lazy air.

Since you were gone,
You missed the icicles on the houses
Dripping their lives away;
And their brothers, the snow mountains—
You missed them when they shrank to puddles.

Do you know that?
There were a lot of things that you missed,
Because you were away.
Of course,
There was something I missed, too . . .
